

Italian Asset Gatherers Sector

The Italian asset management industry had a strong start to 2015, boosted by the favourable business environment, also related to the ECB Quantitative Easing. Assogestioni data highlighted a total net inflow of EUR 29.1Bn in the first two months of the year (almost 3 times the level of the same period of 2014) and the strong trend was confirmed by the monthly listed companies' data. Following the positive YTD price performances (from +27.5% for Banca Generali to +69.2% for Anima), we believe that the current market multiples (average 2015E P/E around 20x) reflect the strong business momentum for the sector.

- Sector overview. The gradual decline in interest rates, reducing clients' appetite for govies and banking bonds and deposits, and the crisis of the real estate sector drove the net inflows' growth in asset management products in 2013 and 2014. The favourable business momentum is continuing in 2015 also thanks to the ECB Quantitative Easing. Strong net inflows were driven by both networks of financial advisors (FA), whose market share on total financial household wealth rose by 80bps to 7.6% between end-2012 and Sept-2014 (10.6% looking at the FA perimeter only), and banking branches, which, after several years of outflows from mutual funds, were back to positive net sales in 2013, in particular accelerating in 2014. Both Assoreti and Assogestioni data highlighted a strong start to 2015. Total Assogestioni asset management inflows in January and February 2015 amounted to EUR 29.1Bn (almost 3 times that of Jan-Feb 2014), while Assoreti data highlighted in the same period a total net inflow of EUR 4.4Bn, of which EUR 3.6Bn AuM (vs. EUR 2.1Bn in the first two months of 2014).
- Sector triggers. The current low-yield environment should continue to favour the robust trend in net inflows. In our opinion, we also see opportunities for the sector arising from likely M&A, driven by the Popolari reform, in the banking sector and the Voluntary Disclosure procedure. Banking M&A could favour both FA networks (which could recruit banking employees looking at alternative professional opportunities) and Anima Holding, which has a successful M&A track record and was already cash positive at end-2014. As highlighted by the recent 4Q/FY14 company's presentation, banks potentially integrating with Anima Holding's strategic partners could also valorise their asset management activities through the possible disposal to a listed company. As regards Voluntary Disclosure, Banca Generali and Azimut Holding, servicing upper-affluent and high-net worth individuals, could be, among listed companies, the main beneficiaries of the procedure, which, according to recent press articles (Il Sole 24 Ore) is experiencing a difficult take-off, due to uncertainties on some technicalities of the procedure.
- Valuation. After the positive YTD price performances (+69.2% Anima, +52.3% Azimut, +47.2% Mediolanum, +41.9% Fineco and +27.5% Banca Generali), we believe that the current market multiples (approx. 20x average 2015E P/E) reflect the strong business momentum for the sector. Awaiting the release of 1Q15 data (starting from 29 April with Mediolanum), we stick to our current recommendations and target prices, which we recap in the table below.
- Key risks. The main risks for the sector are represented by, in our view: 1) a slower than expected Italian economic recovery, which could negatively impact the households' savings rate and their appetite for managed investment solutions; 2) a potentially negative financial market performance weighing on AuM and reducing managed investments' attractiveness; 3) a possible increase in market interest rates; and 4) the regulatory and fiscal risk.

Sector Overview

Strong net inflows and assets' growth in 2013 and 2014

According to Assogestioni's quarterly data, mutual funds drove the total net inflows' growth in 2013 and 2014 (when the system more than doubled the positive 2013 result). This was an important driver of a 2011-14 CAGR of 19.9% in total AuM (+17.7% in mutual funds' assets).

The turning point for mutual funds' net inflows was 3Q12, with the positive net sales mainly driven by the downwards trend of interest rates, reducing clients' appetite for government bonds and banking bonds and deposits, and macroeconomic crisis, penalising the real estate sector, together with the increased specific local taxation (+178% in the 2011-14 period, according to Confedilizia).

In the past four years, the networks of financial advisors significantly gained market share on the total households' wealth. However, their market share on total AuM (net of duplications) remained stable at 19.3% in 2014 (19% in 2012), as a result of declining market shares in mutual funds and higher weighting of FA network on individual mandates and insurance products.

As regards mutual funds, in 2013, after several years of net outflows, banking branches were back to positive inflows in mutual funds, supporting net commissions' line of banking groups. In 2014, the positive inflow for the banking channel accelerated.

Note: Other Channels mostly represented by banking branches; Source: Assoreti on Assoreti and Assogestioni data

The weighting of both banking branches and financial advisors as distribution channels of new life business is increasing from 70.8% and 13.3% in 2013 to 71.3% and 15.1% in 2014, respectively.

Strong start to 2015

At end-2013, total assets under management (mutual funds, insurance investments and pension funds) represented only 26.6% of Italian households’ total financial assets (which, in turn, are less than half of total households’ wealth, due to the still high weighting of real estate assets) compared to an average 45% for Western economies (source: Bank of Italy, Annual Report 2013). At end-September 2014, total AuM were up to 29.4% of total households’ financial wealth. However, the persisting low-yield environment could favour a further switch towards AuM. According to Prometeia projections, the weighting of AuM on total household wealth should be up from 29.4% at end-2014 to 32.8% at end-2017.

Furthermore, Italy has a high level of net wealth to disposable income and low level of private debt on disposable income, which leaves room for further growth.

Both Assogestioni and Assoreti data showed a strong start to 2015 in terms of net inflows. At the same time, market performance also significantly helped, with total Assogestioni's AuM at end-February (EUR 1,675Bn) recording a 5.7% growth vs. December 2014, of which 1.8% due to net inflows and 3.9% due to positive performance contribution. Looking at open-ended mutual funds only, total funds under management at end-February were EUR 734.8Bn, +7.5% vs. December 2014 (+3% from net inflows and +4.5% from positive market performance), which should support 2015 asset gatherers' performance fees, with a positive impact on management fees also in the medium term.

Overview on Listed Companies' Results

All the Italian listed companies in the asset management and asset gathering sector benefitted in 2014 from record net inflows, which were the most important contributors to the sector's growth in AuM and total customers' assets, also supported by, as regards Azimut and Banca Generali, external growth contribution.

As previously highlighted by Assogestioni and Assoreti data, the sector has had a strong start to 2015 in terms of net inflows. Individual data of listed companies represent a confirmation of the above-mentioned trend, which, despite being favoured by the low-interest rate environment, also reflects, as reported by companies' press releases, Italian families' increasing appetite for managed investment solutions and need for skilled financial investment advisory.

Sector Outlook: 2015 Triggers

The likely Italian banking sector consolidation process, driven by the recently approved Popolari Banks' reform, could give FA networks the opportunity of recruiting banking employees looking at professional alternatives in the uncertainty related to M&A final outcomes. At the same time, we would expect asset gatherers to have a strong focus on the quality of their networks, mainly looking at the average portfolio of potential new recruits (Azimut Holding recently stated, in its 4Q/FY14 results' presentation, to be focused more on quality than on quantity in terms of new recruitment).

We believe that M&A could be a potential 2015 growth trigger also for Anima, the only listed player without an FA proprietary network and exclusively leveraging on banking distribution. We see the banking consolidation process more as an opportunity than a threat for Anima, which has a successful M&A track record and was already cash positive at end-2014, also considering that the above-mentioned context could outline a potential Italian solution even for Banca MPS. According to the recent 4Q/FY14 company's presentation, Anima aims to play an ambitious key role as facilitator of M&A deals among banks to consolidate asset management entities, thanks to its track record of aggregator. Banks potentially integrating with Anima's strategic partners could also valorise their asset management activities through the possible disposal to a listed company. On the contrary, we believe that a potential offer on BMPS from a foreign banking group with an established asset management business in Italy could represent a threat for the group.

Azimut Holding has for a long time presented itself as a potential buyer in Italy and could take advantage of potential opportunities arising from the likely banking sector consolidation process. However, we would not expect Azimut to announce a big acquisition in Italy in the short term.

The Voluntary Disclosure procedure, which started in January and should remain open until September 2015, is related to hidden money as at end-September 2014, envisaging full payment of taxes and interests, with discounts on penalties only. Although the recent agreements (including Switzerland) on automatic exchange of tax relevant information should give a boost to capital repatriation, according to a recent Il Sole 24 Ore article, the Voluntary Disclosure procedure is highlighting a difficult take-off, mainly due to its complicated scheme and uncertainties related to the risk of rising costs due to potential criminal conduct, leading to an extremely wide cost range of 4% and 90%. The same source reported that only 1k filing requests have been received until now by the Italian Tax Authority. However, the weekly Plus of Il Sole 24 Ore recently reported an estimate (published by PWC in February) of EUR 75Bn potential capital repatriation with the Voluntary Disclosure. We believe that, among our covered asset gatherers, the main beneficiaries of the Voluntary Disclosure should be Banca Generali and Azimut Holding, which had a market share of approx. 2% and 1-1.5%, respectively, in the 2009-10 Tax Shield (Mediolanum was within the 0.5-1% range). Our estimates do not currently factor in any positive effects related to the Voluntary Disclosure, which could represent a potential upside.

The list of companies covered by the Research Department is available upon request. The companies for which Banca IMI acts as sponsor or specialist or other regulated roles are covered in compliance with regulations issued by regulatory bodies with jurisdiction. In the case of a short note, we advise investors to refer to the most recent company report published by Intesa Sanpaolo SpA's Research Department for a full analysis of valuation methodology, earnings assumptions, risks and the historical of recommendation and target price. In the Equity Daily note the Research Department reconfirms the previously published ratings and target prices on the covered companies (or alternatively such ratings and target prices may be placed Under Review). Valuation methodology (long-term horizon: 12M)

The Intesa Sanpaolo SpA Equity Research Department values the companies for which it assigns recommendations as follows: We obtain a fair value using a number of valuation methodologies including: discounted cash flow method (DCF), dividend discount model (DDM), embedded value methodology, return on allocated capital, break-up value, asset-based valuation method, sum-of-the-parts, and multiples-based models (for example PE, P/BV, PCF, EV/Sales, EV/EBITDA, EV/EBIT, etc.). The financial analysts use the above valuation methods alternatively and/or jointly at their discretion. The assigned target price may differ from the fair value, as it also takes into account overall market/sector conditions, corporate/market events, and corporate specifics (ie, holding discounts) reasonably considered to be possible drivers of the company's share price performance. These factors may also be assessed using the methodologies indicated above.

Valuation methodology (short-term horizon: 3M)

Our short-term investment ideas are based on ongoing special market situations, including among others: spreads between share categories; holding companies vs. subsidiaries; stub; control chain reshuffling; stressed capital situations; potential extraordinary deals (including capital increase/delisting/extraordinary dividends); and preys and predators. Investment ideas are presented either in relative terms (e.g. spread ordinary vs. savings; holding vs. subsidiaries) or in absolute terms (e.g. preys).

The companies to which we assign short-term ratings are under regular coverage by our research analysts and, as such, are subject to fundamental analysis and long-term recommendations. The main differences attain to the time horizon considered (monthly vs. yearly) and definitions (short-term 'long/short' vs. long-term 'buy/sell'). Note that the short-term relative recommendations of these investment ideas may differ from our long-term recommendations. We monitor the monthly performance of our short-term investment ideas and follow them until their closure.
